DAILY RECORD-UNION

FRIDAY DECEMBER 12, 1884

The RECORD-UNION is the only paper on the coast, outside of San Francisco, that receives the full Associated Press dispatches from all parts of the world. Outside of San Francisco it has no competitor, in point of numbers, in its home and general circulation throughout the coast.

SAN FRANCISCO AGENCY.

L. STEPHENS is sole Agent for this paper in San Francisco and vicinity. He is authorized to receive advertisements and subscriptions, and collect for the same. Rooms 21 and 22, Merchant's Exchange.

THIS MORNING'S NEWS.

In New York yesterday Government bonds were quoted at 123% for 1907; 113% for 4½%; sterling, $4 22¢ & 56; 101½ for 38 silver bars, 100%.

Silver in London, 49½d; consols, 109½d; 5 per cent. United States bonds, 103½d; 4½ per cent. San Francisco Mexican dollars are quoted at 86 48¢ cents.

The mining-share market was weak in San Francisco yesterday, while the middle comstocks were the best sustained. The outside stocks were generally lower.

St. John is becoming more and more serious.

St. John is charged with receiving $50,000 from the Democrats for advertising a candidate in the recent Presidential election.

The decks of several Democratic Congressmen were yesterday ornamented with roosters of brilliant plumage.

Archbishop Lynch was consecrated at Toronto, Ontario, yesterday, with the usual pomp and ceremony.

Westcott & Co., brokers of Syracuse, N. Y., have failed for $100,000.

Snow fell yesterday in several localities of the State.

Andrew Truckee was killed by a blast at North Bloomfield, Nevada county, yesterday.

Several State Senate yesterday adjourned until Monday.

The schooner Stella Maris was wrecked on the Newfoundland coast Wednesday, all on board perishing.

The message sent to the Senate by the President in regard to the Spanish treaty, is given in our dispatches this morning.

The streets of Los Angeles are "making it hot" for gamblers.

Indictments have been found in Chicago by the Federal Grand Jury against several officers of election for fraud, and they have been arrested.

The Archbishops and Bishops composing the recent Encyclical Council of Catholics have issued a joint statement.

A grand dinner was given in Baltimore last evening to Senator A. P. Gorman, Chairman of the National Democratic Executive Committee, by the "representative business men" of that city.

THE NEW BOOK SYSTEM.

The State Board of Education has done very well thus far in inaugurating the new school-book system. It is reported to us that one of the Board, prior to the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution, was opposed to the clause and had been a strong opponent of the new system. This gentleman has, since taking his seat on the Board, said that the book men would not antagonize or impede action taken to carry out the spirit and letter of the amendment, either before the Legislature or elsewhere, because they—the book men—are confident that about three years of trial will so disgust California with her experiment that she will be glad to return to the old system.

The people of California certainly should extend a vote of thanks to the publishers for their mercy in keeping "hands off" of the State for even three years. Where the member quoted obtained his information we do not know, but assume that it was from an authoritative source. It is just to him to say that he has manifested a willingness to give the experiment a fair trial. But we cannot but regret that anyone opposed to the system should have executive charge in putting it to test. This is a writer entitled to be tried by his friends. It is not for a moment believed, however, that any obstacles will be thrown in the way by members of the Board, but non-belief in the system will not conduct to vigorous action to defend it. The majority has been friendly to the scheme from the beginning, and now that it is adopted, it is believed all the members are desirous of securing the best fruits possible from it. But it is well that we know what the book men believe relative to this matter. It will render the people more watchful of the economies of the scheme, and tend to greater caution in every step taken. That the publishers will find they have misjudged, we hold to be a certainty, if only good work is done at the outset. We want nothing of hasty compilation, nothing of hasty printing. The people, in proposing to publish their own texts, intended to have the very best obtainable in all respects. If this is done, and the outlay does not more than twice exceed former cost to parents during the first three years, the scheme will be voted a success. It is well for the people to keep in mind that the friends of the new system have never hoped to perfect it in the first or second year. It will take us from three to five years to secure just what we want, and to get the production down to the cost rate it must reach. It involves the outlay of over $100,000 in the first year to prepare the necessary machinery, lay in supplies and pay extra employees. For this we shall receive back not more than $40,000 probably in the first year. The second year we shall have but little machinery to put in, and the third year none. By that time, and not before, can it be accurately ascertained just what the cost of the school books will be. The people must possess themselves in patience therefore. The scheme is a momentous one; it breaks up all the old systems; it involves such a radical departure that errors must be expected. The highest attainment is not to be reached by a bound. If in three years' time we shall be able to finally settle down to the basis of a future policy as to what books we need, and the actual cost of production, we will have done well, and will be rewarded for all the cost and trouble by the eternal exclusion of the vicious book-publishing interests from our local politics. We can even afford to put up with indifferent and high-priced books, if thereby we can be rid of the syndicate of text-book publishers that now straddles our shoulders, bends every household in the State to its will, and corrupts the fountains of our school system.

THE UNIVERSITY LIQUOR LAW.

The Oakland Independent, in considering the law that prohibits the sale of liquors of a spirituous character within two miles of the State University, says it was passed clearly in defiance of the theory of personal liberty, "and the enactors must put it to rest. Even should the long distance be between the passage of the law to the decision of its constitutionality and its vigorous enforcement, be accomplished, the question was by no means settled." After stating that despite the law liquors have been sold in Berkeley openly and privately, and that the law was probably introduced to be more ornamental than useful, the Independent adds: "It is clear that nothing has been gained by the attempt to establish the powerless law, save the unjust notoriety of the University for student drunkenness." The whole tenor of the article is a sneer at the law. The law may run counter to the "theory" of personal liberty, but in no respect does it interfere with the personal liberty as guaranteed under a republican form of government. It is a wise law, clearly within the police regulation powers of the State, and no more open to objection than are ordinances for the enforcement of sanitary regulations for the conservation of the public health. No sneer at the law is defensible, to say nothing of the bad taste manifested in covertly assailing it. It must first be pointed out wherein it has worked harm to the community, or how its repeal will benefit the University or the people of Berkeley, before it will be in order to contemptuously refer to it. We care nothing for the charges against or policy of President Reid. It is sufficient to note that the law is a good one, intended to promote peace and soliety, and to remove temptation from the immediate presence of the sons and daughters of citizens committed to the care of the Regents and faculty of the University. It has been held to be a constitutional enactment; it has its counterpart in similar laws in other States. Even if it has been violated, that no more opens it to assault than any of the statutes commanding certain things to be done, and prohibiting the doing of other things. It certainly was not intended to be more ornamental than useful, but to contribute, as it has, to the welfare of the student class. It is an open acknowledgment by the State that the unrestricted sale of liquors is an evil, and that the necessity for certain restrictions and regulation exists at least in the immediate vicinity of certain State institutions.

THE ST. JOHN SCANDAL.

There is small reason to place any trust in the story telegraphed to the press that in the late campaign St. John, the Prohibition candidate, remained in the field for a consideration paid by the Democrats. If they had indeed hired him outright to aid them he could not have better served his employers than by precisely the course he pursued. But that he was so bought to injure the Republican cause, we do not believe, nor that he was offered $30,000 by the Republicans to withdraw, but accepted $50,000 from the Democrats for remaining in the field. The Democracy would have been foolish to have made any such a bargain; even more so than the Republicans. Governor St. John's personal character is not such as to give even an air of probability to the story. He is a man of unquestioned integrity, and has been recognized as a high-minded and honorable man. That for a mess of pottage he would betray those who nominated him and confess himself a vulgar trickster, there is no warrant as yet for believing. But there are some facts relative to his candidacy that go to prove he did not receive the full support of the Prohibition strength. In 1882, in Ohio, 320,000 votes were cast for the prohibitory amendment, but St. John this year received only 11,269 in Ohio. In Kansas 92,000 votes pronounced for the prohibitory amendment; yet in Kansas Governor St. John received but 4,905 votes. In a former year that of state convention was present but submitted will support the cause carried forward. I interrogate this announcement. I comment it to you in confident expectation that it will receive my present purpose to enter into detailed consideration of the many immediate and prospective difficulties that will arise in connection with our production and shipping in terest to our production and our shipping interests. CHESTER A. ARTHUR.
